Welcome to the 2022 Q1 contest! If you don't know, this contest has occurred every quarter with the genre changing to allow all kinds of authors to participate. However, there is one thing changing…this is the last contest. I have been running this contest since 2020 and now feel it is time to take another direction.

In the future I plan to randomly run contests and giveaways that will benefit both the authors and readers within the PSC community. My focus is to help you, so don't be shy to leave a comment or send an email whenever you have questions. Now on to the final PSC Quarterly Novel Contest!

Authors submitted their books, I randomly selected the contenders, and now you get to vote!

If you are among the first 25 voters who vote for the winning book, you will get the winning book for free coming straight from the author. Time is of the essence. Voting will be open until April 1st at noon EST.

Alright, you know the details. Let's check out those novels!

It is a bloody journey where two samurais with a devastating past, a Viking, a geisha and a group of survivors try surviving in a zombie apocalypse.

They will cross Feudal Japan, leaving Fukushima to Niigata in search of one last hope, facing betrayals, deadly traps, great battles, many losses and hundreds of zombies.
